Folded house

One walnut wall folds at 45° through the suite, curves soften every turn, and the 3.2 m section hides two lofts.

- Top of the stair, the suite door. Behind it a 45° dressing gallery runs to the bed: a folded walnut wall of his wardrobes on one side, pocket doors to hers (4.3 m hanging) and the master bath on the other. No corridor: every step is dressing room.
- The diagonal pays: the slanted wall is 3.0 m long where a straight one would be 2.1 m, and the bedroom's leftover triangle becomes the dresser/TV corner.
- Space out of nothing, from the 3.2 m section: a secret crawl-in loft over the kids bath (5 m²), a reading loft over the double room's desks (5.6 m²), 11 m² of suitcase lofts over the dressings.
- Curves where you turn: a quarter-circle walk-in shower (no glass), a curved glass vestibule looking straight through to the garden, a curved half-wall wrapping the round dining table.
- Prayer room door on a 45° corner, so the whole east wall is icons. Guest WC with a second door via the garden store for garden days.

Big moves

- 45° dressing gallery; hers + master bath (stack W1) under its slanted wall.
- Quarter-circle shower; chamfered prayer door; landing heart: kitchenette, linen, laundry 3.2 m².
- Lofts: crawl loft over the kids bath, desk platform loft, storage lofts over the dressings.
- Ground: curved glass vestibule, walnut pivot wall to the kitchen, curved dining half-wall.
