Daniel's plan — 22 Oct

Daniel's own first floor of 22 Oct: an open suite where bed, lounge and a curved entry flow into each other, a round landing hall, and a kids wing of one twin room, a play room and a shared bath.

- Up the stair you step onto a landing with a kitchen niche behind bifold doors and the laundry closet opposite; one door at its north end opens into the parents' suite.
- The suite door leads into a short passage whose walls curve outwards into one open space: the bed on the west under the garden window, the curved sofa and TV in the east bay by the terrace slider, nothing closing them off from each other.
- From the curved passage, a 45° sliding door opens into the dressing: a centre island with a curved end splits it into two aisles (0.9 m and 1.1 m) with wardrobes on the walls; the master bath (option H) opens off the other side of the passage.
- South of the stair the landing becomes a round hall: a curved wall wraps the undecided room on the west, the small curved prayer room sits against the stair, and one door leads into the kids corridor.
- The kids corridor serves a 4.5 m twin bedroom with desk and wardrobe, the play room / mini gym on the street side and a bath with walk-in shower and a double basin.
