Office Angles 1 — diagonal dressing

A 45° passage cuts through the master wing between two angled walk-in dressings; family living, kitchenette, laundry and WC share the east-garden bay.

- The master suite is entered on a diagonal: one door off the landing leads into a 45° passage that turns toward the bed, past both dressings and the bath, so the bedroom stays out of sight from the stair.
- Two walk-in dressings, each a closed room with a sliding door on its angled face: his is the 2.0 × 2.0 m core with an L of hanging, hers below it is larger, with wardrobes on three sides.
- Round display niches fill the corners left over by the angles, one in the suite passage and one facing the top of the stair.
- Family living with a curved corner sofa takes the east-garden bay; kitchenette, laundry and a WC are lined up behind it on the east wet zone.
- Kids wing on the street side: a twin room with 1.1 m beds, a shared nightstand and two desks, a 4.1 m play room / mini gym, a family bath with a full tub, and a prayer room on the west wall.
