Office Angles 2 — curved prayer room

The office's Angles 2: a prayer room closed by one sweeping arc, a corridor that kinks at 45°, and a dressing hall of two chamfered wardrobe rooms.

- Prayer room as a small chapel: four seats in a row face a sweeping curved apse wall that spans the whole west bay, with a candle stand set into the curve at its west end; the curve meets the corridor's 45° wall tangentially, so the room reads as one soft shape.
- The corridor kinks at 45° past the prayer room, which eases the turn from the landing towards the kids bath and play room.
- Master suite behind one door off the landing: a lobby opens to a full-width shower room (walk-in shower, WC, double basin) and, through a diagonal, to a dressing hall with two L-shaped wardrobe rooms (1.99 × 2.04 and 2.06 × 2.00) chamfered at 45° towards each other.
- Master bedroom over the whole west garden bay, 4.35 m deep, king bed on the west wall, its own terrace door, and a sliding door straight into the family living.
- Family upstairs: an east-garden family living with a big curved L-sofa and a WC/shower, kitchenette and laundry at its door; a kids double room with two 1.1 m beds and a shared nightstand, and a play room / mini gym over the street.
