

F1-2

Daniel's plan, detailed — B

Rev 07 kept wall for wall; the six open items designed the bolder way: a sculpted double-sided TV / fireplace monolith, a 0.90 counter that becomes the dining banquette, a worktop pantry, a half-wall-and-glass suite divider with the lounge sofa floating off it, a kids bath with a screened WC niche, and the prayer icon wall facing the door.

- In from the porch you stand in an entrance lobby whose east wall curves away from you; a narrow arch in it leads to a small ante-room with a chair, the guest WC door and the garden store door, so no guest ever walks into the kitchen or the living room looking for the toilet.
- West of the lobby the kitchen is a galley: sink run and fridge on the west wall by the existing side door, a 1.1 × 1.5 island with a two-burner hob and two stools, the walk-in pantry behind an accordion door in the street corner and a tea corner with a curved built-in bench and a round table for family breakfasts.
- A curved L-shaped breakfast bar (bar height 1.05, three stools) wraps the kitchen's north-east corner; beside it a folding partition closes the kitchen off from the hall when it is needed.
- The great hall is one 70 m² room over both bays: the 8-seat dining table in front of the bar, a serpentine sofa under the west windows with two half-moon chairs, and in the middle a free-standing 1.6 m curved wall carrying the TV; the east bay has the conversation group of sofa, two tub chairs and a coffee table, and a curved sectional that backs onto the stair.
- The U-stair stays open to the hall with a tree in a pot in its well; the first floor is D1's (22 Oct) as a placeholder until Rev 07 is drawn.
- One 1.0 m door at the top of the landing closes the whole parents' zone: behind it a 1.1 m corridor serves the dressing on the left, the bath on the right and opens into the suite lounge.
- Bed and lounge are one suite: the bedroom under the garden window, the curved sofa in the terrace bay, divided only by a 1.4 m sliding panel beside the column.
- The dressing is one room with wardrobes on all four walls and a rounded 1.8 m island splitting it into 0.90 m aisles (north and south), reached through its own door off the corridor.

What is different from F1 (only the open items)

– TV wall → a 1.8 m high sculpted monolith on his curve: 0.20 blockwork core, a 0.35 m deep bio-ethanol fire + display niche on the west (garden-lounge) face, the TV on the east face over a 0.35 floor console, both ends rounded (r 0.275 half-drums); the half-moon chairs now face the fire, the sofas face the TV.

– Breakfast bar → a 0.90 m worktop-height counter open to the dining; its west 1.5 m carries a built-in banquette on the dining side (the counter is the seat back), the east 1.2 m a 0.30 overhang with two stools; the lobby leg keeps a 1.10 upstand. Island 1.00 ×
